OHIO'S DOODLE BUG.

The peculiar black-bellied beetle known as the Ant Lion.

The doodle-bug of the Ohio boy of thirty years ago is the rare and curious insect known as the Ant Lion.

To do this the ant lion selects a sandy place and goes to work.

It first constructs a funnel-shaped hole in the sand, and then it begins to dig.

When the ant lion has finished its hole it begins to dig.

It then begins to dig.

It then begins to dig.

It then begins to dig.
